CT RC&D actively seeks high school students to become Airline Trail Representatives!

Open Call to Schools and Youth Organizations in All Towns Along the Airline Trail!
Putnam, Colchester, Pomfret, Lebanon, Portland, Hebron, Hampton, East Hampton, Chaplin, Thompson & Windham

CT RC&D has a mission to expose the under-utilized natural resource that is the Airline Trail by getting youth to engage with its many features. Through youth engagement, we are able to encourage an investment and inspiration for their hometowns and a renewed sense of connection to the outdoors for their communities.

Through the ALSPT Master Plan, CT RC&D will be providing opportunities for high school youth to partner with professionals in the natural resources field. This will give youth the opportunity and skills training to identify the features that the trail provides to their community. As part of this training, they will become representatives of the trail through their towns.

Areas of focus along the Airline Trail include (but are not limited to): Marketing & Tourism, Engineering & Design, Conservation & Natural Resources, and Geography & Mapping.

Youth are the backbone and future of our towns, no less so eastern Connecticut. To engage youth in community building is to set a path toward prosperity based on their personal dreams and aspirations for their town, region and state.

CT RC&D seeks to have at least two high school representatives of each town. If you know a high school student who is interested in making a difference in their community, loves the outdoors, seeks community service and professional development opportunities, please have them complete the application below, or reach out to jshea@ctracd.org
